SIGHT ZEPPELINS OFF ENGLISH COAST

Observer at Lifesaving Station at Wells Reports Four Flying Southward

ALLIES CLAIM SUCCESS

England Reports British Toops Have Established Themselves on the Gallipoli Peninsula

LAND GUNS SHELL DUNKIRK

LONDON, May 1.—(4:07 a. m.)—A despatch to the Mail from Wells on the coast of Norfolk, says that four Zeppelins were seen at 6:30 o'clock last night eight miles off the coast by the observer at the life saving station. They were moving southward. Warnings immediately were sent to all towns within a considerable radius. No airships have been seen by any of the other coast stations in this vicinity.

British Report Successes.

London, April 30—(10:15 p. m.)—After serious fighting, in which the Turks offered a stubborn resistance, British troops, according to an official statement issued tonight, have established themselves on the Gallipoli peninsula and advanced a considerable distance toward the narrows of the Dardanelles, while the French have cleared Cape Kum Kaleh, on the Asiatic side of the straits, of Turks. Thus, it may be said, that the second and most serious attempt to force the Dardanelles has been fairly launched. The official account of the landing of the allied troops does not bear out the over optimistic reports from Grecian towns which preceded it and which mentioned thousands of prisoners as having been captured, the total of men taken by the allies being given as 500. These were cut off by the fire of the ships.

Neither does the report mention operations off Smyrna and against the Bulair line of forts, but it is certain that these points are being watched to prevent reinforcements reaching the Turks.

Land Guns Shell Dunkirk.

Besides the news from the Dardanelles, the British public was supplied with several sensations today. The misreading of the day French official communication led to the belief that the German fleet was out and had bombarded Dunkirk on the North Sea in France; but it transpired that by some means, not yet explained, the Germans had brought their big land guns within range of Dunkirk and thrown shells into it and killed twenty persons and wounded forty-five.

Another report had it that the Germans had been seen off the coast of Belgium, but as British war craft were bombarding Zeebrugge during the greater part of last night and again today this seems doubtful.

Invade Baltic Provinces.

Another sensation came from the east where it is announced that German cavalry which succeeded apparently in getting around the extreme right of the Russians, has invaded the Russian Baltic provinces. There has been no indication in what force the Germans are operating, but it is presumed here that the cavalry is simply looking over the ground to find out what opposition a force landed at Polangen, in the province of Courland, would meet with. In military circles here it is asserted that this cavalry can, however, interfere with the Russian communications and give the famous Russian Cossacks something to do. At the other end of the Russian line, the Russians are reported to be continuing to make slow progress in the Uzsok Pass and to repulse Austrian attacks on their flank in the direction of Stry.

Airmen Bombard Ostend.

In reply to the Zeppelin visit to the county of Suffolk, England, early this morning, allied airmen have visited Belgium and bombarded Ostend and other towns and also attacked towns in southern Germany.

Nothing of importance has occurred along the western battle front. The Germans claim still to hold bridge heads on the Yser canal at Het Sas and Steenstraete. They are being attacked by the allies, who, according to all the official reports, are on the offensive at most points. The German report repeatedly refers to the repulse of allied attacks.

German submarines have shown a slight revival in activity. They have sunk the trawler Lilly Dale and the collier Mobile. The German airmen, it is said, dropped bombs, but without effect, at the American steamer Cushing.

BRYAN DECLARES PATRIOTISM IS NO MATCH FOR ALCOHOL APPETITE

Secretary Points Out That Belligerents Have Been Compelled to Resort to Restrictive Measures.

New York, April 30.—Secretary Bryan declared in an address under the auspices of the National Abstainers' Union here tonight that the European war had developed that even patriotism was no match for the appetite which alcohol cultivates in its victims. The secretary was urging total abstainence and referred to restrictive measures which some of the belligerent nations have taken against intoxicants.

"There has been a growing disposition in this country and throughout the world to emphasize the evils of strong drink," he said, "but even the most enthusiastic advocates of temperance have been surprised at the ghastly light which the war in Europe has thrown upon the subject. It has been found that patriotism, that compelling force which throughout the ages has led men to offer their lives for their country, is no match for the appetite alcohol cultivates in its victims. Loyalty to Bacchus, Gambrinus, and Barleycorn is greater than loyalty to king or kaiser or czar. The use of drink has been found to be so destructive of efficiency that the belligerent governments, not on moral grounds, but purely on economic grounds have been compelled to resort to restrictive measures. The aeroplane that drops its bomb from above and the submarine which shoots its torpedo from below are less to be feared than the schooner that crosses the bar."

Mr. Bryan declared that drink led to idleness and that American business men were drawing the line more strictly against the use of alcohol by employes.

SNOW STORM KILLS SEVERAL HUNDRED SHEEP IN OREGON

Herder in Morrow County Finds Only 400 of his Newly Shorn Flock of Sixteen Hundred Sheep Alive After Storm.

San Francsico, April 30.—A herder in Morrow county, Oregon, found 400 of his newly shorn flock of sixteen hundred sheep alive today after the pitiless storm of wind, snow, sleet and hail which for two days has swept that portion of the United States lying west of the Rocky Mountains. At Monterey, Calif., warehouses were blown into the bay, merchandise and all. In southern California icicles hung from apple trees. The first snow within man's recollection fell in the Salt River valley in Arizona and across the Nevada desert the wind attained the proportions of a hurricane. Damage to sheep in eastern Oregon alone was estimated tonight at well above $500,000. Incidental damage will increase the total loss to well above $1,000,000 according to reports available here early tonight and possibilities of loss running into many millions hinged upon the strong likelihood of frosts tonight threatening fruits of many varities and especially apples and prunes.

DRAMA LEAGUE PLANS PLAY.

"Don," a three-act comedy by Rudolf Besier, will be presented before Drama League members and their guests, Friday, May 14, at the Illinois School for the Deaf. Local talent will give the play and Miss Elson Barnes, chairman of the educational committee, will have direction.

Miss Grace Cowgill of Illinois Woman's college faculty spoke to an appreciative group of Drama League members last evening at the public library. She discussed "The Sunken Bell" by Gerhart Hauptmann and in a well constructed talk of forty-five minutes gave Hauptmann's history, his place among continental contemporaries and brief sketch of the other dramatic works for which he is famous. She related the beautiful legend upon which the tragedy is founded, closing with reference to the idealistic bell maker and his defeat by smothering convention.

ATTEMPT TO INDICATE COMBINATION EXISTS

COUNSEL FOR ROOSEVELT INTRODUCES WITNESSES AT TRIAL

Testimony is Designed to Show Existence of a Bi-partisan Combination Between Barnes, as Leader of Republicans and Murphy as Leader of Democrats.

Syracuse, N. Y., April 30.—Counsel for Theodore Roosevelt today placed before the jury trying William Barnes' suit alleging libel, testimony designed to indicate the existence of a bi-partisan combination between Mr. Barnes, as leader of the Republican organization, and Charles F. Murphy, as leader of the Democratic organization. To this end, former State Senators Harvey D. Hinman, Fred M. Davenport and Joshua T. Newcombe and H. C. McMillan, a former correspondent at Albany for a New York newspaper, were placed upon the witness stand.

Tells of Adjourning Session.

Mr. Hinman, Mr. Davenport and Mr. McMillan testified to things they said happened in the legislature in 1910, when direct primaries legislation was under consideration. Mr. Hinman testified to the adjourning of the special session.

Mr. McMillan swore that he saw Mr. Barnes talking to various Republican senators including Grattan, in the office of the clerk of the senate. He said he saw Senator Grattan talk to Senators Grady and Frawley, whom he described as Tammany Democrats, and that soon after the pair went into the room in which Mr. Barnes was. That evening, he also said, Senator Grattan made a motion, which was passed, to concur in a joint resolution with the assembly to adjourn the special session.

Davenport on Stand.

Mr. Davenport, who was the Progressive candidate for governor last fall, said he had seen Mr. Barnes, during a recess of the senate, in the office of the clerk, talking to Republican senators, while in an adjoining room Senator Grady was talking to the Democratic senators. Later the senators all returned to the chamber, he said, and fourteen Republicans and fourteen Democrats voted for the direct primary bill, favored by the organization. Mr. Davenport testified that he told Senator Grattan who, he said, had been deriding Governor Hughes and Colonel Roosevelt for insisting upon a direct primaries law, that he spoke "like the mouth piece of a political Nero," who was fiddling outside the door of the senate chamber while Rome burned. Mr. Davenport said Mr. Barnes was outside.

Charles H. Duell, Jr., to whom Governor Whitman sent the letter, which was read in court yesterday, applauded after Mr. Davenport had mentioned "a political Nero" and was requested to leave the room by Justice Andrews, presiding. He hesitated and was tapped upon the shoulder by an attendant, who saw him out of the room. Mr. Duell later said his hands had "slipped" and that he had not intende to applaud.

Says Men Admitted Conspiracy.

Former Senator Newcombe said under oath that he had accused Senator Grattan, Republican, and Senator Grady, Democrat, of entering into a conspiracy to defeat a direct primaries bill which was favored by the governor and that Senator Grattan said "we admit it."

Then L. W. Frances, chairman of a committee of Young Republican club of Brooklyn, quoted Mr. Barnes as having said he was opposed to direct primaries, because they gave candidates too much publicity and that he could vote the riff-raff of the Democrats in Albany in the Republican primaries and so disgust the people that they would demand a repeal of the law.

The Roosevelt counsel also got into record testimony concerning the alleged printing situation in Albany. The one witness who testified, Michael Dolan, general manager of the Argus company of Albany, swore that he had never had any business relations with Mr. Barnes and in this connection Justice Andrews agreed in the statement of counsel that Mr. Barnes was in no way responsible as a stockholder in the Albany Journal company.

Hennessy and Vreeland Testify.

Among other witnesses who testified were John A. Hennessy, investigator of state departments while William Sulzer was governor, and H. H. Vreeland, former president of the Metropolitan Securities companies, the holding company for the New York street railways company. Mr. Vreeland was asked questions about having contributed to both the Democratic and Republican organizations during the same campaign, but he was not allowed to answer.

War News Summarized

The allies attack on the Dardanelles, both by land and by sea, apparently has begun in earnest but in the face of strong resistance on the part of the Turkish troops. Having landed successfully at six different places on the Gallipoli peninsula, the British and Australasian troops are declared by the British war office to have entrenched and consolidated their positions.

Constantinople reports that the French armored Cruiser Jeanne D'Arc and the British battleships Majestic and Triumph were damaged by Turkish shells and all of them forced to retire from action; that a British torpedo boat destroyer has been sunk at the entrance of the Dardanelles; that two allied transports were badly damaged by shell fire and one of them beached and that some boats and sailing vessels were sunk.

Paris reports big allied gains to the north of Ypres and the taking of two sucessive lines of trenches and many prisoners. Berlin asserts that the Germans still hold the bridge head on the western bank of the canal near Steenstracte and Het Sas and the eastern side of the waterway north of Ypres.

There has been some fighting at other points along the western line, the most important of which was between the Meuse and the Moselle.

In the east fighting is in progress from northwestern Russia to the Carpathians, with both Berlin and Petrograd claiming successes in ground gained or attacks repulsed. The source of the bombardment of Dunkirk, which at first was attributed to German warships has been located by British airmen. It was a German gun implacement inland from Dunkirk and the British report that their airmen have dropped fourteen bombs on it.

RESCUE FIFTEEN PASSENGERS FROM DISABLED STEAMER

SAN DIEGO, April 30—Braving mountainous seas and a furious gale a boat load of sailors from the American-Hawaiian Seamship American rescued fifteen passengers tonight from the Mexican Steamer Victoria, disabled and leaking badly off the Coronado Islands just south of this port.

In response to urgent signals of distress from the disabled steamer, Captain Schermerhorn of the American, who had himself been compelled to seek shelter of the islands, launched a life boat and by clever seamanship succeeded in placing the boat alongside the crippled craft. The fifteen passengers were lowered to the life boat and transported safely to the American.

LITTLE GIRL SEVERELY INJURED WHEN STRUCK BY AUTOMOBILE

Mrs. Bailey Rexroat's Car, Driven by Alonzo Moseley, Strikes Little Alice Hanson Friday Afternoon on West Lafayette Avenue.

Alice Hanson, the little daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Christian Hanson, 729 North Diamond street, was knocked down by an automobile Friday afternoon shortly after 5 o'clock and suffered a badly mangled left arm. Alonzo Mosely was driving the car, a Cadillac, and the property of Mrs. William Bailey Rexroat, 503 East College avenue. The accident took place on West Lafayette avenue at the corner of North Diamond street as the little girl was on her way to play at the home of a neighbor.

Dr. J. M. Wolfe was called and the girl was taken to Dr. Day's hospital. On examination by Dr. Day and Dr. Wolfe it was found that the arm had been fractured in four places and that the hand was badly crushed. While on her way to the hospital the sufferer was partly conscious and last night her condition, though serious, showed good promise for recovery.

Besides Mrs. Rexroat and the chauffeur there were in the car, Mrs. Clyde Richardson, Bailey Rexroat, Jr. and Miss Ethel Rexroat. The auto was headed eastward and was proceeding in the driver's estimation at a ten-mile gait. Mosely threw on the brakes immediately after the accident and brought the Cadillac to a standstill about half a car length away.

The child ran in front of the car at the same moment Mosely was turning out for a wagon hitched on West Lafayette avenue, according to the chauffeur's statement. The young negro does not think he ran over the child as he could see its body at the side of the machine just after the little girl was struck. Mosely was driving along the right side of the road, he says, and turned to the left as far as possible, at the same time sounding the horn.

ADVANCE RATES OF PAY OF ENGINEMEN

ARBITRATION AWARD IN WESTERN WAGE CASE IS SIGNED

Dissenting Opinion is Filed on Behalf of Brotherhood of Enginemen in Which the Arbitration Was Branded as a Failure—Charge Nagel Was a "Violent Partisan"

Chicago, April 30.—An arbitration award advancing to some extent the rates of pay of 64,000 locomotive engineers, firemen and hostlers employed on the 140,000 miles of line of ninety eight western railroads in the great area of the United States and Canada, bounded on the east by the Illinois Central and great lakes was signed here today.

File Dissenting Opinion.

A dissenting opinion was filed on behalf of the Brotherhood of Enginemen in which the arbitration was branded as a failure and the Newlands law, under which it was arranged, an inadequate device for the settlement of industrial disputes. The award, effective May 10th, and binding for one year only, was frankly declared as merely postponing for twelve months the actual settlement of the differences involved. The railroad members of the board issued a formal statement criticising features of the regulations governing the arbitration and remarking that certain concessions, regarded as intrinsically unjust, were made for the sake of preserving peace with the employes.

Explains Concessions to Men.

As explained by Mr. Burgess the essential concessions to the men were:

1. Standardization of rates of pay on the weight of locomotives on drive wheels.

2. Overtime pay to passenger firemen and engineers ranging from 44 to 75 cents an hour respectively.

3. Enginemen of steam power may transfer to electric power when installed without loss of seniority rights after May 1st, 1915. The board was unable, because of the newness of electric service, to fix rates of pay in detail but named $4.90 a day as the minimum for motormen in passenger service and $2.50 for their helpers; $4.75 for motormen in freight service and $2.75 for helpers.

4. Enginemen of milk trains, circus trains and other irregular service such as pusher and helper receive the rate accorded on through freights, an increase of from ten to fifteen percent.

5. The men will be paid for delay while in their cabs at initial and final terminals and for time in excess of thirty minutes spent in preparing their engines for service.

6. Switch enginemen will receive an advance in daily pay of twenty-five cents on small engines and fifteen cents on large ones.

7. Men held away from home terminals shall, after twenty two hours idleness, receive a minimum day's pay of ten hours, based on last service, out of each succeeding twenty-four hours until he gets a run.

8. Through freight wage rates were advanced five to twenty cents, increasing with weight of engine and twenty five cents on some of the extremely heavy engines.

9. Way freight enginemen will receive thirty cents a day more than through freight men.

10. Surprise tests will be conducted in such a way as not to endanger life, limb or nerves.

11. Firemen will be assisted where assistance is available in keeping coal forward and the coal shall be broken into proper sizes at chutes.

12. Where firemen on big engines deem an assistant necessary, the matter may, of necessity be adjusted through arbitration

13. Firemen will not be required to clean engines, nor will engineers be required to fill grease cups, set up wedges or perform other minor duties about an engine where others are available to do the work.

14. The weight on drive wheels of each engine shall be posted where the enginemen can have convenient access to the information.

Charge Nagel Was Partisan.

Chicago, April 30.—Charges that Charles Nagel, neutral member of the board of arbitration which today ended its deliberations over the railroad wage question was "a violent partisan" who through indirect business interests in the roads was unfitted to act as a neutral arbitrator, were made tonight by Warren S. Stone, grand chief engineer of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, and W. S. Carter, president of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Enginemen and Firemen.

With these charges was made public the telegraphic correspondence the representatives of the men had had with President Wilson and Martin E. Knapp, W. L. Chambers and G. W. W. Hanger, protesting against Mr. Nagel being permitted to act as an arbitrator.

The representatives of the brotherhoods also submitted their objections to the board arbitration in spite of a direct appeal from President Wilson supplementing the requests of Judges Knapp and Chambers that they be withheld pending conferences between the president and the board. The protests asserted that the arbitrator acting as co-executor of the estate of Adolphus Busch had a direct and personal interest in the success of at least twenty-one railroads through the ownership of stocks and bonds.

The representatives of the brotherhoods specifically denied they had known that Mr. Nagel was co-executor of the Busch estate at the time he was accepted as the neutral arbitrator.

Entered Arbitration Reluctantly.

In closing the signed statement, which accompanied the correspondence, Messrs. Stone and Carter declared the brotherhoods had entered arbitration reluctantly and "to avoid the greatest labor strike the country has ever seen."

"Having consented to arbitration," the statement continued, "we expected we would receive fair and impartial treatment from the government officials but candor compels us to state that we have been grossly deceived in being compelled to submit our case to a jury upon which sat not only two railroad officials but also one alleged neutral arbitrator, who has shown by his conduct and demeanor throughout the whole hearings that he was a violent partisan of the railroads."

Submit to Public Opinion.

Declaring that they had refrained from seeking publicity, owing to ethical reasons which no longer existed, the statement closed:

"We therefore submit the matter to the bar of public opinion which is practically the only appeal we have from the unjust award which has been made."

Mr. Nagel before leaving for St. Louis tonight asserted that his business associations had been of public record for years. He entered the arbitration duties reluctantly, he said, and only after having been convinced that the duties of citizenship required such service.

STATE BAR ASSOCIANION TO MEET IN QUINCY

Annual Convention Will Have Constitutional Revision as General Theme for Discussion.

The lawyers of the state will meet in annual convention at Quincy on Friday and Saturday, June 11 and 12th, 1915. The general subject for discussion at the meeting will be "Constitutional Revision." Delegates from county bar associations all over the state will be in attendance and speak for their associations, thereby bringing together the views of the leading lawyers of Illinois from Galena to Cairo on this important subject.

A committee has been apopinted to secure a special train to carry the lawyers from Chicamo to the meeting. Judge E. C. Kramer of East St. Louis, the president of the association, will deliver the annual address. His subject will be "Concerning a New Constitution for Illinois." Lawrence Y. Sherman and James Hamilton Lewis have accepted invitataions to attend the meeting and take part in the program.

It has been many years since the lawyers of Illinois met in the western part of the state, and John F. Voigt, secretary of the association, announces that the Adams County Bar Association is making elaborate arrangements for the entertainment of the visitors. A boat ride on the Mississippi River and an automobile ride along the beautiful bluffs of the river are planned as a part of the entertainment. The meeting will close with a banquet on Saturday night, at which prominent lawyers of the state will speak.

The Illinois Society of the American Institute of Criminal Law and Criminology will hold its meeting at Quincy at the same time in connection with the lawyer's meeting. The association is now the second largest state bar association in the United States and has a membership of about two thousand.

COLON IS SWEPT BY DISASTROUS FIRE

Ten Persons Are Known to Be Dead, Including Two Native Policemen

SEVERAL HUNDRED HURT

Between 10,000 and 12,000, Mostly Negroes, Made Homeless—22 City Blocks Burn

ESTIMATE LOSS AT $2,000,000

COLON, April 30.—More than half the city of Colon was swept by a disastrous fire which started shortly after 2 o'clock this afternoon.

Ten persons are known to be dead, including two native policemen and several hundred persons have been injured, while between 10,000 and 12,000 others, mostly negroes, have been rendered homeless. The loss is estimated at about $2,000,000.

Twenty-Two Blocks Burn.

The fire destroyed completely 22 city blocks and was not controlled until twelve buildings in its path had been destroyed. Many arrests have been made for looting. The town is now under the guard of the native police and two companies of the United States coast artillery, who aided in fighting the fires.

Half the population have lost all their belongings. The fire started in the heart of the city and soon was beyond control of the native fire brigade. The wooden buildings, of which the town is almost exclusively constructed, burned like tinder. Most of the largest stores in Colon, all of them carry heavy stocks of merchandise, were directly in the path of the flames. The cause of the fire has not yet been learned and probably never wil be known.

Firemen Dynamite Buildings.

A high wind was blowing at the time the fire broke out and late in the afternoon when it was spreading fast and myriads of sparks were being carried in the direction of Christbal, firemen in the canal zone began dynamiting buildings in the path of the flames in order to form a gap where the conflagration might be stopped. For a time these efforts were fruitless but later the fire was brought under control.

All the banks in the city were destroyed and part of the railway station was burned. All that part of the city between Seventh street south to past twentieth street and on Front street eastward beyond Bolivar street was destroyed.

FOR PROTECTING BIRDS.

Some of the steps that can be taken to induce birds to colonize about the premises are the following:

1. Do not shoot them or permit them to be stoned or frightened.
2. Erect nesting boxes. In these, ten or more species may nest.
3. Prohibit unusual noise around the premises during the nesting season, particularly while birds are selecting sites for nests.

Provide nesting material for use in constructing nests.

5. Put out trays of water and mud for robins, swallows, etc., for use in building.
6. Erect and preserve old posts, stumps and logs with holes in them.
7. Supress prowling cats and dogs.
8. Plant a few extra fruit trees and berry bushes. Give the birds their share of fruits to pay for destroying insects.
9. Plant some of the native fruit-bearing shrubs and trees around fences. These may be service berry, raspberry, blackberry, elderberry, wild cherry, choke cherry, mulberry, haw, grape and hackberry.
10. Permit a secluded corner to grow up as a thicket for shy birds.
11. Feed and water them during times of scarcity of food and water, both in winter and in summer. Give grain in the straw to quail in winter.
12. Discourage egg collecting and needless slaughter of birds.

A bill just introduced in the legislature provides that aluminum work in seals and automobile numbers may be done at Pontiac reformatory. If provision is made for this work the state's delay in getting auto numbers, conspicious last year, is not likely to occur again.

Here in Jacksonvile cordial relations exist between the Parent-Teachers' organizations and the Board of Education. The value of the organization has been demonstrated by a great deal of useful work. In some communities this same spirit of cordiality is not demonstrated.

As a result of general disruption and disagreements the directors of a school in St. Louis county recently prohibited the parent-teachers' association there from using the school building for their meetings.

Secretary Bryan addressed the league of total abstainers in New York last night and drew special arguments in favor of the abstainance program from the action taken by European powers since the war. The secretary said the great nations had acted not from moral but from economic grounds as they found that in many instances drink had a stronger hold than patriotism and was so forming a serious menace. Mr. Bryan has been accused sometimes of being a vagarist and a visionary, with changing ideals, but he must be credited with constancy and consistency in his grape juice propoganda.

Will Not be Welcome Home.

After the war is over the English author who has just been decorated by Emperor William with a non-combatant's iron cross will probably find it pleasanter to remain in his adopted country. Houston Stewart Chamberlain is the author and since the war began there have been published in German newspapers, with his consent letters to friends in which he blamed English for beginning the conflict. One of the letters attributed to him closed with the words: "May God protect the glorious German cause. There is no other hope for the future of mankind."

Market Shows Improvement.

The live stock markets have shown some improvement recently and hogs yesterday sold at $7.90, the highest price for many months. Last week the market touched $6.85 one day but there was a gradual decrease this week which was more than recovered yesterday. Cattle, too, were quoted as strong yesterday and the order which has just been issued removing quarantine restrictions it is believed will have an immediate strengthening effect. Those familiar with live stock matters feel confident that both cattle and hog markets will continue to show advances during the next two or three months and that by the middle of the summer the high market standard set last year will be again approached.

Much to Commend.

Although the new city officers will not enter upon their duties until Monday the work of the present administration practically closed yesterday. The present council took charge of the city's affairs, under a new form of government with little in the way of precedent to guide them. There has been much done during the four years worthy of commendation and approval. There have been marked advances in several departments and there has been an evident desire to give the city an honest and economical administration.

As a result Jacksonvile is in better shape today financially than when the present officers assumed charge and business methods used have saved the city money and have reduced the total of the floating debt.

America Still Young.

Occasionally one is impressed with how young America really is. Just the other day a man died at the King home in Chicago who had been an intimate friend of William Lloyd Garrison and of Wendell Phillips. He had campaigned for Lincoln and knew other celebrities of fifty and sixty years ago. There are still a few men living whose memories carry them back even further and twice the span of such lives covers the whole history of this country.

It was just 126 years ago yesterday that Washington was inaugurated, in New York City. It had taken the messenger of congress, Charles Thomson, Esq., just one week to reach Mount Vernon, where he delivered his official notification to the President-elect on April 14th. The second day after that Washington began a ojurney every step of which is memorable. From the moment when he left the gates of Mount Vernon until, seven days afterward, he was met by a deputation from Congress at Elizabethtown, New Jersey, it was one continuous triumphal march. Governor Clinton welcomed Washington on his arrival in New York on the 23rd. Cannon and church bells sounded as he landed from a barge.

A Municipal Farm.

New charter provisions have given the city of St. Louis a great deal more authority than heretofore enjoyed for the purchase of utilities and for the operation of other enterprises. It so happens, therefore, that the director of public welfare has recommended the establishment of a municipal farm which it is said would occasion the expenditure of about $500,000. The Globe Democrat says that there is much in the plan to demand commendation. The money for the purchase and equipment of the farm would not be available from any other source except by the sisuance of bonds and this can be done under the present law. Those in favor of the proposition believe that a farm thus established could be made to pay its way and that in fact it could produce a great many things that are now purchased by the city. Another argument in favor of the plan is that inmates of St. Louis jails could be used for some of the workers and that in other times the farm could provide employment for those out of work and honestly seeking something to do. It would be expected, too, that the farm would have quite a large influence on the agriculture in a wide area around St. Louis, as the purpose would be to conduct the work along scientific lines. Moral, social and financial returns, it is believed, could all be expected.

LUCK.

A little bit of effort, a little bit of thought,
A little bit of daring and of pluck.
A little bit of courage in the fight that's being fought.
All this is often looked upon as luck.

A little bit of vision, and of faith, a little, too.
A bit of stern resistance when you're struck.
A little bit of purpose in the work you have to do,
All this is in the masonry of luck.

A little bit of wisdom, and the magic of a smile,
Some real determination when you're stuck,
The grit to keep on going till you make another mile,
Are cataloged and labeled under luck.

The wish to travel pathways that were never trod before,
To hold the line against the foes that buck,
To keep the spirit beating when the flesh is weak and sore
All this is in the parentage of luck.

To do the right when wrong would seem to fill your purse with gold,
To cling to truth, nor fear the devil's muck;
To play your part unselfishly, be ever brave and bold,
Herein you find the mystery of luck.

HOT TEA BREAKS A COLD—TRY THIS

Get a small package of Hamburg Breast Tea, or as the German folks call it, "Hamburger Brust Thee," at any pharmacy. Take a tablespoonful of the tea, put a cup of boiling water upon it, pour through a sieve and drink a teacup full at any time. It is the most effective way to break a cold and cure grip, as it opens the pores, relieving congestion. Also loosens the bowels, thus breaking a cold at once.

It is inexpensive and entirely vegetable, therefore harmless.—Advertisement.

A FEW RESULTS OF OHIO EXPERIMENTS ON CORN

Results from Fertilizers in Five-Year Rotation System—Corn Better Notes Purebred Draft Mares, High Grade Cattle and the Value of the Quail.

1. Comparing a 5-year rotation system with the continuous growing of corn, the former has given an increase of 13 to 14, 79 bushels per acre, in spite of the heavier use of manure and fertilizers under continuous culture. Comparing a 5-year with a 3-year rotation, the latter has given an increase of 6 to 8.39 bushels per acre. Comprising a 3-year rotation with continuous cropping, no fertilizers used in either case, the yield of corn from the former is 127 per cent greater than the latter.

2. The use of phosphorus, alone, in the form of acid phosphate, has increased the yield of corn 8.28 bushels per acre. The use of manure alone has increased the yield 31.27 bushels per acre as an 8-year average. The use of acid phosphate and manure has increased the yield 40.58 bushels, thus leaving 9.31 bushels to be credited to the acid phosphate.

3. On such acid soils as are found on the Station farm at Wooster, one ton of burned lime, or two tons of ground limestone, applied once in 5 years, has increased the yield of corn on an average 7.35 bushels per acre on the fertilized plots and 8.25 bushels per acre on the unfertilized plots. Taking into consideration all the crops of the rotation the application of lime has been worth, on the average, $14.21 pere acre per rotation. The cost of the lime has been $5.00.

4. Comparing very deep plowing with ordinary plowing and with subsoiling, the 5-year average gain for subsoiling has been 2.32 bushels per acre, and for the deep plowing, 0.43 bushels per acre. C. G. Williams and F. A. Welton, Ohio Experiment Station Bulletin (just published) No. 282.

Treatment of Brittle Nails.

Brittle nails are often due to bad health. They should be treated daily with a little pure white vaseline.

The vaseline should be well rubbed over and into the nails, and also worked into the under part of the nail just above the finger tip.

Hang nails are due to excessive dryness of the skin surrounding the nails. Try rubbing the base of the nails every night with a little good cold cream. That should help to cure them.

Cleansing the Hands.

When the hands are dirty try adding a little sugar to the soap with which they are washed. The sugar increases the lather and also the cleansing power of the soap, and the sugar removes dirt and stains.

When You Eat Onions.

After eating onions eat a leaf of parsley or drink a glass of milk and the unpleasant smell and taste will at once disappear.

ILLINI LITERARY SOCIETY GIVES LAST PROGRAM OF SCHOOL YEAR

Musical Numbers Were Greatly Appreciated by the Audience and the Operetta "Gretchen" Received Special Applause.

Illini Literary society of the David Prince school held their last meeting of the year in the auditorium of the school Friday afternoon. There was a large attendance of the parents and friends of the members and a meritorious program was given consisting of musical numbers with an operetta entitled, "Gretchen", in the second part. While the people were assembling the orchestra played a number. The meeting was called to order by the president, Lindley Williamson, and Miss Ruth McDonald, secretary, read the minutes of the last meeting.

The first number on the program was a selection, "Green Kisses", by the 8th grade orchestra, which was well done. Miss Margaret Tomlinson gave a piano solo "Impromptu", with good interpretation and this was followed by a violin number, "On the Plantation", by Hilda Ator, who acquitted herself well. The last music number was a piano duet, "Comedy Overture Lustspiel", given in a splendid manner by Dorothy Smith and Florence Cox.

The first number of the second part was a chorus of nine voices who gave "The Pop-Corn Man" by J. D. Dailey. Those taking part were Louise Struck, Harold Stewart, Josephin Miller, Ursula Fawcett, Richard McCarty, Margaret Tomlinson, Myra Whitlock, Edward Alexander and Eunice Williamson. The audience accorded a loud applause. The operetta "Gretchen" was greatly appreciated by the audience and those taking part acquitted themselves very cleverly, the make-ups being especially appropriate. The scene represented a living room in the Holfshoten home and Mr. Holfshoten was Lindley Williamson, his wife, Elizabeth Cogswell; Gretchen, their daughter, Lucy Coover, and Karl Kline, Gretchen's lover, Hugh Wilson. The program closed with some amusing legerdemain by Aurelius Vosseller, assisted by James Vosseller. Misses Helen Bennett and Margaret Tomlinson most acceptably acted as accompanist of the afternoon.

HIGH SCHOOLPARENTS AND TEACHERS TO FORM ORGANIZATION

Meeting Has Been Called for 4 O'clock in the High School Building Monday.

There will be a call meeting of the high school parents and teachers in the high school building 4 o'clock Monday afternoon for the purpose of forming a high school parent-teacher association. Those back of the movement feel that it is well for this organization work to be done this spring in order to have plans made for meetings early in the next school year. The following article is taken from School and Home Education by Mrs. William F. Young relative to high school parent-teacher associations:

It has been repeatedly stated that parent-teacher associations can be sucessfully organized and carried on in connection with grade schools, but that they can't be made to "go" with high schools. The purpose of this article is to set forth, first the necessity for high school parent-teacher associations and second, the fact that they have been made not only to "go," but to "go" to a constructive end.

The head master of a Massachusetts high school of twelve hundred boys and girls said to me this winter, "I am more and more impressed with the absolute confidence that American parents repose in High school teachers. They turn their boys and girls over to us at the end of their grammar school days and apparently never give them another thought, as far as their school life is concerned, till their graduating exercises roll around. It is really amazing." His observation might have been made, I dare say, by the majority of high school principals and teachers in this country.

Mr. Roosevelt said on one occasion, "I am sure that I give utterance to a feeling deep in the hearts of teachers when I express contempt for the 'cuckoo' type of parent, the father and mother who deposit the child in school, and then think that all responsibility for its intellectual moral and physical welfare falls on the teacher.

"There is no child's problem (be he six or sixteen) that is not also his parent's problem; there is no parent's problem that is not also a social and economic problem, and the latter press harder as the children reach that period when their interests begin to extend away from the home into the ever widening environment outside its shelter. There is no time in a child's life when he more greatly needs parental sympathy, understanding, and oversight than during the adolescent nigh school period and that is, at the same time, the logical period in which to relax the stringency of parental government, to relax obedience by command, and institute instead, obedience by ideals.

This is the biggest reason why parents and high schools need to "get together;" they should have, indeed must have, a common standard of ethics for the guidance of their common charges, else the "social cleavage" is going to widen instead of close.

Now the fundamental purpose of any Parent-Teacher Association are three, to promote child welfare, to promote closer co-operation between the home and school and to study conditions in the community affecting child life. Have we so filtered the experience of the centuries and passed them on to our children at the age say, of fifteen, that we need no longer concern ourselves with these objects? The revelations of the juvenile courts do not indicate that we have.

Two reasons occur to me why high school parent-teacher associations do not flourish. One is the adolescent-psychological one that when the passion for realizing freedom, for acting on personal responsibility and for keeping a private conscience begin to stir in the youthful breast at about the high school age, he resents the incursion of his parents into the high school domain. He regards it as a curtailment of his personal liberty, and as the average American child is reared to ideas of independence instead of obedience, this attitude is quite natural. His advent into high school marks a distinct epoch in his life. He begins to recognize it as one of the stages in his preparation for adult life. To some it marks the final stage of their actual schooling, to others it is the portal through which they see the vistas of further preparation.

Baby of Future is Considered

Much thought has been given in late years to the subject of maternity. In the cities there are maternity hospitals equipped with modern methods. But most women prefer their own homes and in the towns and villages must prefer them. And since this is true we know from the great many splendid letters written on the subject that our "Mother's Friend" is a great help to expectant mothers. They write of the wonderful relief, how it seemed to allow the muscles to expand without undue strain and what a splendid influence it was on the nervous system. Such helps as "Mother's Friend" and the broader knowledge of them should have a helpful influence upon babies of the future. Science says that an infant derives its sense and builds its character from cutaneous impressions. And a tranquil mother certainly will transmit a more healthful influence than if she is extremely nervous from undue pain. This is what a host of women believe who used "Mother's Friend" during their period of expectancy.

These points are more thoroughly explained in a little book mailed free.

"Mother's Friend" is sold in all drug stores and highly recommended for its timely usefulness, its safeness and the real help it affords. Ask for it at the store and write us for the book. Bradfield Regulator Co., 511 Lamar Bldg., Atlanta, Ga.

The effect of this splendid external application is an expression of the thousands of women who have successfully used it and recommended it through two generations.

COUNCIL HELD FINAL SESSION FRIDAY AFTERNOON

Resolution Declares Result of Recent Election—No Tally Sheets on Education Board in One District—Mayor Davis in Farewell Remarks.

Mayor Davis and Commissioners Brennan, Engel, Knollenberg and Newman held their final session Friday afternoon as the city council of Jacksonville and adjourned sine die. The work of the meeting was the approval of bills and declaring the result of the recent election. A resolution was passed setting forth that Henry Rodgers as mayor, and Jerry Cox, J. Edgar Martin, Joshua Vasconcellos and William F. Widmayer as commissioners, had been duly elected to office by virtue of the vote cast for them.

Because of an error made in the returns from precinct No. 6 in the second ward, the resolutions with reference to the result in the board of education election in that ward and on the salary and anti-tuberculosis propositions were in somewhat different form. W. H. Stull and M. G. Fernandes who were judges in district No. 6, were present at the council session, and at the request of the council, opened the ballot bag to locate the tally sheet on which the record of the vote on the two propositions and on the board of education had been kept. The judges failed to find any tally sheet and stated that the results on the board of education and on the propositions was as published in the papers following the election, but that in counting the vote the record had been kept on sheets of foolscap paper and that this paper was not in the ballot bag.

Resolutions Declare Result.

The judges were of the opinion that in the hurry to take the returns to the clerk's office that there had been a failure to place the foolscap tally sheets with the other returns. On the advice of City Attorney Thompson the council then passed resolutions to the effect that on the incomplete returns from the second ward that it appeared that Louis H. Clampit had been elected a member of the board, and that leaving out of consideration the returns from this precinct the vote on the two propositions was as follows: salary question: no 2,111, yes, 1,990; anti-tuberculosis question, yes 2,634, no 1,257.

The returns given the newspapers on the night of election indicated that Dr. Clampit received quite a large majority in district No. 6, that the majority was against the salary reduction proposition and in favor of the anti-tuberculosis tax, so that while the exact figures from this district could not be ascertained without a recount, it is certain that such a recount would not change the result and it will probably not be asked for. At any rate, the council deem that the resolutions could be in no other form as they could not canvass the returns which were not before them. Another resolution declared George Imgrund duly elected a member of the board in the first ward.

Mayor Davis' Valedictory.

After all formal business had been given attention, Mayor Davis said that he wished to thank each and every member of the council for the uniform courtesy accorded to him during the four years of the administration, and said that he had tried at all times to treat his associates in the same way. The mayor said that the council had entered upon its duties under the new form of government facing many difficulties and with nothing in the way of precedent to guide. The law at that time was new and in effect in very few cities, and efforts made to secure helpful suggestions from other cities were without avail. Further, the mayor said that he believed each member of the council had acted during the four years with the courage of conviction and each had tried to do the right thing as he saw it. The record of the administration, he said, had nothing in it to give cause for shame, and he believed that with pasing years the people of the city would look back upon the council's record as one well worthy of approval.

MERCHANTS SHOULD DECORATE STORES TODAY

Nearly Fifty Towns and Cities Will be Represented in Interscholastic Events.

Secretary Weber of the Chamber of Commerce is asking the Merchants of Jacksonville through the columns of the press to decorate their store fronts and show windows today in honor of the students who will be in the city to attend the Illinois College Interscholastic field meet and declamation contest this afternoon and evening.

Nearly fifty towns and cities will be represented by more than a thousand contestants and rooters, and since many of them will no doubt look over the field with a view to selecting Illinois college as their future educational home, it is hoped that they will be impressed with the friendly and enterprising spirit shown by the local business men. Prospective college students like to pick on a live and agressive city and it is up to the citizens to show them that Jacksonville bears that reputation.

A Joliet paper has the following regarding Rev. C. M. Brown and the church of which he is pastor:

The annual business meeting of the First Presbyterian church was held last evening, following the regular monthly missionary tea. The session was a most enthusiastic one.

Reports were presented from all of the societies connected with the church activities, showing the year had been a most prosperous and fruitful one in all lines of endeavor. Neat balances were also shown in the treasuries of the various societies.

All in all the reports presented were most encouraging, showing the steady growth of the church under Dr. Charles M. Brown, and that the past year had been the best in history. The prospects for the coming year's work to be even greater are regarded as roseate.

During the business meeting all of the old officers were re-elected, while Prof. R. O. Stoops was honored by election as a member of the board of elders. Bruce Ridenour, Charles Dodds and G. M. Ditto were elected to fill vacancies which have occurred on the board of trustees, the remainder of the old members being re-elected.

BUG KILLERS

The farmer speaks in heated terms of woes that dog his feet; for fifty million bugs and worms will spoil his corn and wheat. And when he's tired of using words which taint the passing breeze, he gets his gun and shoots some birds, which lived in yonder trees. The farmer keeps a score of cats, and gives them milk and curds, supposing they'll fill up on rats—but they are after birds. The birds are death to worms and bugs which desolate the crops, and yet they're killed with cats and drugs, and guns—it never stops. The farmer slays his fairest friend, the bird in wet elm tree, then says, "Alas, there is no end to pests that ruin me!" His righteous heart within him aches, the gophers are so thick, so he pursues a dozen snakes, and kills them with a brick. Yet snakes devour the noisome pest that brings the farmer loss; they swallow mice with eager zest, nor ask imported sauce. The husbandman, the man of woes, would have less cause to groan, if he would only kill his foes, and leave his friends alone.

FORWARD MOVEMENT IN MANY DEPARTMENTS OF TRADE IS SLOW

Each Week Strengthens Confidence in a Progressive Revival of Business Activity.

New York, April 30.—R. G. Dun & Company's Review of Trade tomorrow will say:

"Each week strengthens confidence in a progressive revival of business activity but the forward movement is in many departments of trade so slow and there are so many cross influences at work that some disappointment is felt that the advance is, on the whole not more pronounced. The recent favorable conditions in textile markets are maintained, cotton goods being in excellent demand and the movement of underwear and hosiery expanding. Crop reports continue favorable.

"Financial conditions remain very auspicious, with money easy. There is a considerable reduction in the number of unemployed.

"The export movement continues heavy, the trade balance in favor of this country in the latest week being nearly $21,000,000 a large increase over the preceding week. March exports of wheat are the largest for any month on record.

"Cotton exports in March were the largest in 15 years. Domestic demand for iron and steel is considerably below capacity. Bank clearings for the week amounted to $2,910,166,688, an increase of 1.1 per cent as compared with the same week last year.

"Business failures during the week totaled 447 as against 308 for the corresponding week last year.

"Failures in Canada numbered 65 as compared with 53 for the same week last year."

"We have taken two sucessive lines of trenches and captured a great many prisoners.

"The correspondent of The Associated Press visited today the summit of Hartmanns-Weilerkopf, which the enemy has not attacked for the last two days.

"One of our airships has bombarded the railroad and sheds in the region of Valenciennes.

"Sixteen armored cruisers attacked our advance batteries at the narrows on April 27th, but up to evening the thousands of shells fired upon our bateries and infantry positions resulted only in the wounding of a number of soldiers. The transports of Seddul Bahr were struck repeatedly by our shells and one of them was beached. We sank some boats and sailing vessels.

"The British battleships Majestic and Triumph, which had been damaged had to withdraw from the fighting line."

SUCCESS WITH GARDEN FLOWERS

MOST PEOPLE WANT TO START PLANTING AT ONCE.

Everything Seems to go Along Favorably Until Bright Days Come and the Plant Begins to Wilt—Should Be a Succession of Flowers from Spring Until Fall.

(By James Hutchinson, Assistant in Floriculture, University of Illinois.)

At this season of the year, when nature is waking from her winter sleep, most people become enthusiastic over the idea of having a flower garden, and in true American fashion, they want to begin "right-away". The buoyancy of the atmosphere and the optimism of the spring catalog are stronger than the recollection of past failures. So they begin to scratch up the ground, making it, above all things else, level and neat on the surface, regardless of conditions underground; when it looks all right, they plant and sow. Everything seems to go favorably until the bright hot days come, when the plants begin to wilt; then the hose is brought out and the garden religiously sprinkled every evening. Somehow the plants although they "freshen up" after watering, do not grow much, and they look very disconsolate and unhappy when the realy hot days of July and August come. Gradually our amateur florists come to realize that the spring catalog is a "snare and a delusion" and reluctantly give up the idea of having cutflowers for the table and living rooms and go on long vacations, leaving the gardens to care for themselves.

In September, when the days and nights are cooler and the fall rains moisten the ground, the plants revive and grow, but for a short time only. The nights soon become too cold for the plants to resist. Thus the garden dreams for another year are ended. The gardeners will probably do the same things the next year, but in the meantime they are too much discouraged to think about it. If they thought more about it, they might discover the cause of their failure and do better next time. .. ..

Elementary botany teaches that there are three essentials to plant growth; light, heat and moisture. In these gardens there was an abundance of light and heat as for moisture, the gardens were watered often perhaps every day, but by nine or ten next morning the ground was rdy again. Our friends might ask. "Is there any way tot conserve the moisture which we supply " There is an easy way. By getting out early in the morning and hoeing lightly, a dust mulch which will prevent the loss of moisture by capillary action will be formed on the surface of the ground. There is a handy tool for this purpose called in England a "Dutch hoe" and in this country an "English hoe."

Benefits from Trenching.

There is a far better way, however, to meet the moisture problem; while it entails a certain amount of labor, the effort is well repaid by the results obtained. This is by trenching. Trenching is simply deep digging. The writer knows of no book that describes just the kind of trenching that he recommends. It is the kind he has recommended in many parts of the country, always with good results. The main object in trenching is to dig up the subsoil and place beneath it a stratum of manure. This manure has a wonderfully beneficial effect upon the soil in dry weather.

In beginning to trench a piece of ground, mark it off into three foot sections as wide as the border. Remove the top soil from the first section to the opposite end. Then dig out the subsoil to the opposite end, but keep it apart from the top soil. Then remove the top soil from the second section one spading deep. Throw into the first trench about twelve inches of half-rotted manure, using for this purpose any kind that is not too dry. Throw the subsoil over from the second trench into the first and mix with fairly good manure. When the subsoil has been transferred from the second to the first to the proper depth in the second, the top soil from the third is then used to replace that taken from the first end and the process repeated until the ground is all trenched. The whole will be considerably higher than before, but will soon settle.

The advantages gained are many. The subsoil is enriched, and the plant roots are encouraged to go downward. The manure subsoil is just what is needed to conserve moisture, and when watering becomes necessary and is done thoroughly, this manure serves as a reservoir from which the soil can draw its moisture in dry weather. Daily watering is not necessary. In very dry weather a thorough watering once each week is sufficient. After watering or after a rain, a dust mulch should be formed by light hoeing. ..

Planting the Border.

In planting a garden the object should be to have a succession of flowers from spring until fall. The most interesting border is one composed entirely of hardy perennial plants. Bulbs may be used for spring effects. Annuals may also be used effectively. It would be advisable for the beginner to depend for main effects on the common or hardier varieties, using the more difficult or tender kinds in an experimental way. .. ..

Many garden plants usually considered impossible to grow can be grown successfully upon trenched soil. Sweet peas planted early in soil trenched previous fall give a surprisingly large number of flowers in May and June. Even such delicate subjects as tuberous rooted begonias can be grown, providing they are planted in a semi-shady position. These beautiful flowers alone will more than repay the trouble of trenching.

No garden should be without the holly hocks, larkspurs, columbines, cone-flowers, sunflowers, phloxes, canterbury bells, and asters. These will all be benefitted by the trenching of the soil, and perhaps by next summer, if trenching is begun, now, flowers will be available for the decoration of the home.

SUPPRESSION OF HOG CHOLERA

Recommendations by Governor Dunne Which May Well be Considered by Farmers of State.

" In the matter of the management of the State Biological Laboratory in connection with the operating methods and the free distribution of anti-hog-cholera serum to farmers within the State, I have upon investigation arrived at the following conclusions:

"That the present method of free destribution of anti-hog-cholera serum is highly unsatisfactory and should be discontinued;

"That the State Biological Laboratory should be placed upon a self-sustaining basis. This could easily be done by the expenditure of $25,000, for additional buildings and equipment which would enable the Director of the Laboratory to turn out five times more serum per annum than has heretofore been possible;

"By apprpropriating not less than $50,000 to be used as a permanent operating fund for the production of serum to be sold directly to farmers or farmers' clubs at approximately the cost of production, with a slight additional charge to cover depreciation and up-keep of the plant, satisfactory results could be obtained and much-neded service rendered to swine breeders within the State, practically without expense to the State. Under present conditions the State has annually appropriated from $30,000 to $40,000 for the benefit of a comparative few woh have been supplied with serum gratis at the expense of the State;

"Under the proposed plan of operation the Laboratory can be made self supporting and at the same time render a useful and satisfactory service to a large per cent of swine breeders throughout the State. In the event that the General Assembly sees fit to effect the proposed change farmers' clubs should be organized for the purpose of combatting the ravages of hog-cholera. Serum should be purchased in advance of inevitable outbreaks and placed in cold storage in their respective localities, in order that it may become available for use immediately when cholera is first discovered in herd. By means I am authoritatively advised that losses resulting from hog cholera, even in infected herds, can be reduced fully fifty per cent, and inasmuch as the annual losses resulting from hog cholera within the State are conservatively estimated at approximately $3,000,000. Every possible effort should be made to utilize to the utmost, modern means of preventing such losses through the early treatment of infected herds with serum and by the adoption of sanitary means of preventing the spread of the contagion of hog cholera broadcast through the State.

"I am satisfied that the proposed plan of operation would receive the full approval of the agricultural press and practically all who are personally interested in the suppression of hog cholera in Ilinois."

KERNALS FROM THE CORNBELT

By Sol E. Quizer.

Uncle Sam says the insects of this country exact an annual toll of $700,000,000. What part of it are you planning to pay, Mr. Farmer?

"Here's the sign when war is over
Should be placed in many hands;
"We have opened up for business
But the management's changed hands."

Soy beans and corn make the best kind of field partners. Corn draws on the nitrogen supply in the soil; soy beans put nitrogen back.

A farmer who burns his cornstalks had the nerve to call his wife extravagant when she fed the chickens the makings of hash.

A Nebraska live stock farmer who had horses for sale, refused to let them go to buyers in search of horseflesh for the European war. He offers quite a contrast to the Gentleman from Russia who is willing to sacrifice his last moujik.

CORN ROOT APHIS DREADED INSECT

PROBLEMS OF ITS INJURIES HAVE BEEN PRACTICALLY SOLVED.

Multiplication of Pest Comes from Eggs Collected by Corn Field Ants—Rotation of Crops and Deep Plowing Measures of Protection.

(By Stephen A. Forbes, State Entomologist.)

The corn root-aphis or corn root-louse, as it is more commonly called, is now the most generally injurious insect pest of the corn field in Illinois. Its injuries have been but little checked by all that has been done and printed concerning it, and they are evidently increasing slowly in total effect. There is, in fact, no other corn field insect which is so frequently called to the attention of the economic entomologist. Nevertheless, the corn-root-aphis problem has been practically solved—not, perhaps, in the best way possible, or as completely as will be the case when time, money, and skilled assistance are all available for further studies and experiments. Undoubtedly, however, if the results which have already been established were generally put to use in the practice of the Illinois farmer, this aphis would presently lose its place at the head of the list of insects affecting corn, and would be classed among those which are only occasionally injurious enough to call for special notice.

Key to Control.

The key to the control of this insect is to be found in its spring condition in old corn fields which have been infested by it the year preceding; and in the fact that corn is the only crop plant upon which it lives and multiplies. This is substantially shown by the following facts.

1. The eggs left by the corn root-lice in fall when the insects themselves perish, are virtually all in the earth in corn fields. They are collected there by the corn field ant, which keeps them in its underground burrows until they hatch the following April and May.

2. As the young root-lice escape from the egg they are placed by these ants on the roots of pigeon-grass, smartweed, and other cornfield weeds on which they live by sucking the sap, giving off at the same time an abundant fluid excrement which is lapped up by the ants as food.

3. The root-lice hatching from the egg are all females, and produce no eggs, but bring forth living young when tney themselves are about two weeks old. Their young, in turn, reproduce in the same way, one generation succeeding another at shorter intervals as the weather warms up, until midsummer they are only a week apart. The average number of complete generations for the season is about sixteen in the latitude of central Illinois.

Second Generation.

4. The second generation of this series to appear in central Illinois about the first of May, and the oldest of these will begin to give birth to the third generation on or before the middle of that month. So rapid is the rate of reproduction that by the end of June as many as six generations may have made their appearance.

5. The root-lice of the first generation—those hatching from the egg—are all wingless; but beginning with the second generation a variable percentage of this and of all following generations may acquire wings. These winged root-lice, called migrants, may thus begin to appear early in May.

6. By means of these winged insects originating in old corn ground, fields not infested the year before may become infested from the first week in May onward. Root-aphis injury is thus like a contagious disease, spreading from field to field on the wings of the escaping migrants. As these fall to the ground they are taken in charge by the corn field ant, which carries them under ground and places them on the roots of plants, where they begin to feed and to bring forth living young precisely as to the wingless ones. The young born from winged mothers are wingless or winged, according to circumstances, just as are those whose mothers are themselves without wings.

7. As the winged hce may begin to come up out of the ground and fly away even before corn is planted for the new corn crop, and will continue to do so throughout the season, fields that were not in corn the year before may become infested by these winged migrants and their young while the corn is still very small.

8. The corn-field ant is indispensable to the root-lice, which it carries about from place to place as may be necessary, transferring them to the roots of fresh plants when those they have been feeding upon become sapped or overcrowded.

The principal measures of protection against the corn-root-aphis are rotation of crops; an early and deep plowing, followed by the repeated deep disking, of corn ground heavily infested by ants or known to have born a crop injured by the root-aphis; and the use of repellent substances at planting-time, not by direct application to the seed, (which is dangerous to germination and early growth), but by previous mixture with chemical fertilizers or other powdered substances, to be dropped with the seed by means of a fertilizer-dropper attached to the corn planter. SOME COMMON SPRAY MIXTURES FOR TREES

THIS PROTECTION IS NO LONGER AN EXPERIMENT.

Proper Use of Fungicides and Insecticides Attacting Great Attention Today—Spraying Schedule for Illinois Peach Orchards.

The protection of fruit trees from the fungous diseases and insect pests by spraying is no longer an experiment. No phrase of horticulture activity is attracting more attention today than the proper use of fungicides and insecticides, since the quality of fruit which is placed upon the market is determined largely by the character of the spraying which has been done.

A fungicide is a preparation which has for its active agent some chemical by which the development of fungous spores is retarded or prevented. It is generally applied with water, which serves as a distributing agent for the active ingredient. Fungicides are designed to control such diseases as apple scab, apple blotch, bitter rot, brown rot, and many other fungi of a similar nature.

Bordeaux Mixture.

Bordeaux mixture is the standard for most of the diseases injurious to orchard and garden crops. It was introduced into this country from Europe in 1887 by the U. S. Department of Agriculture. The original formula has been modified somewhat; the mixture giving the best results today is one made from:

4 pounds of copper sulfate.
4 pounds of lime.
50 gallons of water.

Small Quantities.

When the small home orchard composed of only a few trees is to be sprayed, the equipment should consist of a 50-gallon barrel, two tubs of at least 25 gallons capacity, two buckets and a paddle. Arrange the tubs so that one is on either side of the barrel. Place in one of the tubs 25 gallons of water and dissolve in it 4 pounds of copper sulfate suspended in a coarse sack just below the surface of the water. About one hour should be allowed for this; but if hot water is available, the copper sulfate can be dissolved in a small quantity in much less time, and the solution then diluted to 25 gallons with cold water. In the other tub carefully slake 4 pounds of stone lime, using only sufficient (hot) water to have the lime, when thoroughly slaked, in the form of a thick paste, in which form it should be allowed to cool. When cold, dilute to 25 gallons. The copper sulfate and milk of lime are now ready to mix; two persons are necessary for the operation. Have the contents of each tub well stirred, then pour a bucketful of each mixture simultaneously into the barrel, allowing the two streams to come together. Continue in the same way until the entire amount is made. Continue in the same way until the entire amount is made. Thoroughly agitate the blue mixture in the barrel, and transfer it through a strainer into the spray tank. It is now ready for application.

Dormant Spraying

The following is a spraying schedule for Illinois peach orchards:

An application of winter lime sulfur (commercial solutions diluted 1 to 8; homemade solutions, 1 to 4; should be applied to all peach trees about two weeks before the blooming stage, at the time just preceding the swelling of the buds. This treatment is effective against scale, but is made primarily for the control of peach leaf-curl, which infects peach trees in nearly every section of the state.

First Regular Summer Application.

The first regular summer application should consist of 2 pounds of paste orsenate of lead and 2 to 3 pounds of lime for each 50 gallons of water. This treatment is for curculio. It should be made about ten days after the bloom, at a time when the shucks are being pushed off. At this time the fruit and foliage should be thoroughly coated, but care must be taken to avoid drenching, as it is apt to result in injury.

Second Regular Summer Application.

The second regular summer aplication should consist of 8-8-50 self boiled lime and sulfur and 2-50 paste arsenate of lead, and should be applied about four weeks after the bloom. This treatment is for scab, brown rot, and curculio.

In spraying varieties due to ripen within three or four weeks after this application, it is advisable to omit the arsenate of lead from the mixture so as to avoid the presence of any poison on the fruit at picking time.

Third Regular Summer Application.

This application should consist of 8-8-50 self-boiled lime and sulfur, and should be made from two to three weeks after the second treatment. This spray is given especially for brown rot. It should be applied very heavily, care being taken to coat the fruit thoroughly.

Additional Treatment.

Further spraying with self-boiled lime and sulfur may be necessary in order to keep brown rot in check. In years when there are severe attacks of this disease, it may be found advisable to repeat the self-boiled lime and sulfur treatment at intervals of ten days or so, up to within two or three weeks of picking time.

Orchards subject to serious infection of brown rot should be inspected frequently, and an attempt made to remove every diseased peach to a dumping ground some distance from the orchard.

Orchardists desiring fuller information on these subjects may send for reprint of Bulletin No. 160 of Agricultural Eperiment Station by O. S. Watkins.

KEEP ACCOUNT WITH EACH COW

INTERESTING AND VALUABLE FACTS FOR ALL DAIRYMEN

Cow Testing Association Places All Raisers and Milkmen in a Position to Heed Advice Given—Cows Differ Widely in Productive Ability.

(By Mr. W. W. Yapp, Department of Dairy Husbandry, University of Illinois.

It is a well-recognized fact that cows differ widely in their productive ability and it is generally conceded that the only accurate measure of a cow's production is obtained by weighing and testing her milk. The question which then arises is as to what is the most practical way in which this measurement may be made. The most practical method is found in the co-operative cow testing association, since it furnishes a cheap, easily operated and at the same time, sufficiently accurate method of testing. .. ..

The plan of the co-operative cow testing association came from the little country of Denmark. For the idea we are indebted to the wife of a Danish Creameryman who suggested to her husband that if several dairymen would organize and employ a man to weigh and test the milk of each cow, it would be a cheap and practical way of finding out their production. As a result of this suggestion an association was organized in that community in the spring of 1895. Ten years later the testing association with some modifications was introduced into the United States.

The First Association.

The first association organized in this country was established in Fremont, Michigan in 1905 and is still in operation. The growth of the movement in this country has been repaid. July 1, 1914, nine years after the first association was organized, there were 163 associations operating in 30 different states. Illinois did not have an association until 1910. Since that time several have been organized and last year there were seven in operation in the state.

Method of Operation.

The co-operative cow testing association is founded on the principle that a number of dairymen who are situated near each other is a given community can organize and employ a man to do their testing cheaper and more satisfactorily than they can do it themselves. The most convenient association to operate is one composed of twenty six members. This number permits the tester to spend one day of each month at each place without having to work Sundays or holidays. In some associations the tester furnishes his own horse and buggy and drives from place to place; in others, each farmer takes him to the next testing place.

Duties of the Tester.

The tester, supplied with an outfit similar to the one shown in Figure 1, arrives at the home of the dairyman in the afternoon, weighs and takes a proportionate sample of the milk of each cow separately, and weighs the feed which she consumes. In the morning he repeats these operations. The samples from the evening and morning milkings are put together to form composite samples which are tested for butterfat. To find the production for the month the tester multiplies his results for the day by the number of days in the month. The yearly production is the sum of twelve monthly credits. In addition to the duties named in his contract the tester is expected to concern himself with the welfare of the dairy interests of the community in which he works. He should be qualified and willing to tassist the farmer in such problems as the balancing of rations and the planning of improvements.

In 1910, when the first associations were organized in Illinois, it was found necessary to organize them on the dollar per cow per year basis, the University making up the deficit necessary to employ a good man as tester. As the associations became more numerous it was found necessary to organize them on a self-supporting basis. In 1914 this was done and all of the associations were placed on the dollar and a half per cow per year basis. Although the University does not render financial aid to cow testing association, it will send out a representative to any community, which shows sufficient interest, to assist in organization. In addition to this assistance, the University loans to each community which organizes in this way a testing outfit and furnishes the necessary blanks, asking in return a copy of all the records of the association. In order that any community may secure the cooperation of the University, the dairymen need merely apply to the Department of Dairy Husbandry.

RECENT ADVANCES IN WARFARE AGAINST INFECTIOUS DISEASE

Modes of Transmission of Infection is First Consideration—Much Harm Comes From Spread of Mucuous Discharges.

(By John M. Dodson, M. D., University of Chicago, in Health Series of the University of Illinois.)

The manner in which infectious diseases are conveyed from one to another constitutes one of the most interesting and important chapters and in this connection some of the most important of the recent discoveries have been made.

In the body of an infected individual the infective germs are to be found, as a rule, only in certain situations. The most important of these as a source of infection to others, are the secretion from the mouth and nose, and secondly from the other outlets of the body, thirdly the blood, and finally the skin, occasionally discharges of pus from the ear or an abscess elsewhere.

A Great Infection Course.

More and more does accurate observation and experiment point to the mucous discharges from mouth and nose as the great source of infection.

The conveyance of infection to another may be by actual contact or very close approximation of one individual to another, as by handling, kissing, and the like, or it may be indirect through the medium of food, drink, clothing, bedding, books, toys, insects, a third person—and other similar channels. Kissing is undoubtedly one of the most certain and frequent methods of conveyance, and the practice of lip to lip osculation, especially with children, ought certainly to be discourage. Diphtheria, pneumonia, influenza, whooping cough, tuberculosis, epidemic meningitis and several other diseases have been frequently transmitted in this manner.

On the other hand it has been demonstrated pretty conclusively that infected individuals do not contaminate the air about them to any great distance. Air breathed, and especially sneezing and coughing so discharge small particles of mucus which are laden with germs. Too much emphasis cannot be laid on the importance of care in holding before the face in sneezing or coughing a handkerchief or cloth on which all sputum is collected, these cloths to be promptly burned or immersed in disinfectant solutions. It is chiefly by neglect of precaution that the consumptive is a source of danger to those about him. The danger of promiscuous use of drinking cups eating utensils, and indeed, anything which comes in contact with the mouth, are so obvious as to need but simple mention. The public fountain with a common drinking cup is a constant menace to health, and the substitution of the bubbling fountain in which the lips come in contact with only the running water should be universal.

Of special interest in this connection is the discovery in recent years that some disease germs, conspicuously those of diphtheria, may be found in the throats of perfectly healthy persons, or may remain for weeks and months in the throat of one who has fully recovered from an attack of the disease. Such persons are known as diphtheria carriers, and in the case of servants, especially those intrusted with the care of children, have been the means of conveying the disease. Nurses in hospitals for children have occasionally been the innocent and for a time unsuspected sources of such infection.

Typhoid Carriers.

Likewise in the case of typhoid fever, though rarely there are individuals who continue to harbor virulent typhoid germs in the intestinal tract months, and perhaps years after complete recovery from the disease. The bowel discharges from such a typhoid carrier are in the highest degree infectious, and without extreme care are readily conveyed by contaminated fingers to others either directly or through medium of food or eating utensils.

About a year ago such a typhoid carrier was discovered in the person of a cook who is assured of perpetual remembrance in the history of infectious disease under the name of "Typhoid Mary."

It seems quite certain that she was the means of infecting twenty-seven or twenty-eight persons in several families by whom she was employed. She has promised it is said, not to engage in working or any domestic employment which will involve the handling of food.

SWEET CLOVER, ITS NATURE AND ORIGIN

NOW FAMOUS CROP ONCE LOOKED ON AS A WEED.

Brought in to the United States During the Colonial Period—It Has Spread to Every State in the Union—Three Varities are Extensively Grown.

By W. P. Miller, Agricultural Extension, University of Illinois)

Well do I remember the time when sweet clover was considered a weed and most people thought it would take the land, but twenty-five years have passed and I have never known a single case where sweet clover has ever harmed a crop of any kind. .. ..

All over the state at the present time you find men who think it is one of the greatest blessings that has come to the farmer and rarely have I talked with a farmer in my trips over the state that did not believe it was a crop worth considering.

Sweet clover was first grown in the elevated and arid regions of Asia and was supposed to have grown in a district called Bokhara and for this reason it is sometimes called Bokara clover. It was carried from here into Persia and Greece and later into Rome. From here it spread into every country in the world. On King Island in South Australia seventy-five per cent of all the feed is sweet clover.

Sweet clover was brought into the United States during the colonial period and has spread into every state in the union, reaching from the Atlantic to the Pacific and from Canada to the Gulf.

In most places however it is growing along the roads, in barren places, on cinder beds, along the railroads, along ditches and other places that are not cultivated and only a few parts of the country is it grown as a cultivated plant. It has been cultivated for several years in the limestone regions along the Gulf in the northern part of Kentucky. Lately, however, it is being grown more or less extensively in nearly all the central and western states. Illinois is just beginning the cultivation of sweet clover, but in almost every part of the state you find small fields growing.

There are three kinds of sweet clover grown rather extensively in certain parts of the country, which are as follows:

(1) White sweet clover (Melilotus alba)

(2) Bieninal yellow sweet clover (Melilotus officinalis) and

(3) Indian or annual yellow sweet clover (Melilotus indica)

The white sweet clover is the most common and is considered the best kind to grow under most conditions. It is a bieninal, the seed germinating the first year and producing a large root system and tops two or three feet high.

The plant stays green until late in the fall and then the top dies down. Early the next spring, shoots come from the root crown, sometimes as many as thirty or forty, and these grow to a height of five to twelve feet and during the later part of the summer they produce seed.

The Yellow Variety.

The biennial yellow sweet clover is grown in only a few states, it is made up of a number of species ranging from the dwarf, vine like ones to the erect cultivated plant. It ripens its seed about a month before the white. Because of its finer tsems it is preferred by some who want it for hay alone.

The annual yellow sweet clover was accidentally introduced into this country in packing hay. It grows wild in the western states and is found in the grain fields. It is sometimes used as a cover crop for orchards and sometimes for pasture but because of its extreme bitter taste it is not good for the latter purposes.

The seed is sometimes sold as yellow sweet clover or just as sweet clover and the buyer should be very sure that he is not getting seed of this kind. ..

The kind he should get is the white variety and tais is the one which is the most important to the farmer of Illinois.

CHICAGO MARKET FOR WEEK IS REVIEWED

Early Run of Cattle Larger Than Expected—Some Advances Shown in Hogs.

Chicago, April 29—No one expected more than 15,000 cattle at Chicago Monday, so that the run of 20,000 which actually arrived was a distinct surprise. There was a very liberal proportion of the offerings in the free area, this meaning that they came from Iowa, Missouri, Minnesota, etc.; in fact, it was estimated that about 14,000 cattle were on sale in that division. The market was anywhere from 10 to 25c lower, the heavy weight cattle showing the greatest decline, while in the quarantined division the moderate supply of offerings was taken at prices steady to only a shade easier; in fact the nice fat, handy weights sold strong. It was late in the day before a clearance could be effected.

Tuesday brought out a run of only 3,000 grown cattle but a big run of calves, 6,500. The market did not show any quotable change.

Receipts Wednesday were 16,000. The river markets were all lightly supplied and the trade here had excellent tone. The larger part of the receipts was in the quarantine division, thus reversing Monday's conditions. Here the market was slightly easier on the heavy cattle but fully steady on the lighter sorts, while in the free area salesmen were able to recover practically all the market had lost the first of the week. The market was topped for the day and the week by the sale at $8.75 of a load of the same class of yearling Hereford heifers that brought the same figure last week. The market closed up strong with an excellent clearance.

Supplies Thursday were 4,500 and the general market ruled steady.

In comparison with values of a week ago, there is very little change indicated on the heavy weight cattle while the fat handy weights are a little stronger. Considering the fact that receipts have been fairly liberal, the market is closing up very satisfactorily. Supplies have included a large proportion of good weight beeves that people have been holding back in the expectation that prices on this class would advance. We doubt very much if these heavy weight cattle are going to go higher and think it good policy to let them come along more especially as with warmer weather buyers' preferences will be for the handy weights. When the surplus of these heavier cattle is worked off it is only reasonable to expect there will be some little improvement in the market but buyers want the cheaper and lighter weights and we don't believe that any money will be made by withholding the shipment of these fat heavies. In fact, we think they could be more profitably replaced with a class of younger cattle carrying some flesh to feed out on grass for the later markets.

The butcher stock market throughout the week has fluctuated very little. The proportion of cow stuff to the general receipts has been rather light. The bull market is also about steady but the big run of calves this week has naturally depressed the market; only a few vealers have been good enough to bring $8.25.

The hog market under light receipts has again advanced, the top today for the good shipping hogs being $7.85. Liberal receipts of hogs are looked for, and a generally favorable trade.

Sheep Market.

On Monday of this week the lamb market reached the highest point on record, $11.15 being obtained by us for 224 wooled Mexican lambs fed in Nebraska, averaging 82 lbs. This was 55 cents more than any lambs ever brought at Chiago prior to this year, and is 10 cents above the next highest price this season, which was also obtained by us the same day.

Since Monday, however, the lamb market has been on the downgrade, material declines being sustained Tuesday and Wednesday, while today, with estimated receipts of 6,000 the market was steady to 10 cents lower on lambs, though sheep had rather strong tone. Top for wooled lambs was $10.70, and clipped sold up to $8.90.

GIRLS WITH BEAUTIFUL FACES OR GRACEFUL FIGURES

American girls have a world-wide reputation for beauty, but, at the same time, there are girls in our cities who possess neither beauty of face nor form, because in these instances they suffer from nervousness, the result of disorders of the womanly organism. At regular intervals they suffer so much that their strength leaves them; they are so prostrated that it takes days for them to recover their strength. Of course, such periodic distress has its bad effect on the nervous system. The withered and drawn faces, the dark circles and crow's feet about the eyes, the straight figure without those curves which lend so much to feminine beauty are the unmistakable signs of womanly disorders.

When a girl becomes a woman, when a woman becomes a mother, when women pass through through the changes of middle life, are the three periods of life when health and strength are most needed to withstand the pain and distress often caused by severe organic disturbances.

At these critical times women are best fortified by the use of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, an old remedy of proved worth that keeps the entire female system perfectly regulated and in excellent condition.

Mothers, if your daughters are weak, lack ambition, are troubled with headaches, lassitude and are pale and sickly, Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is just what they need to surely bring the bloom of health to their cheeks and make them strong and healthy.

If you are a sufferer, if your daughter, mother, sister need help get Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription in liquid or tablet form. Then address Dr. Pierce, Invalids' Hotel, Buffalo, N. Y., and receive confidential advice from a staff of specialists, that's free; also 136-page book on women's diseases sent free.—Adv.

Yesterday the venerable James O. Hamilton went to Passavant hospital and had an eye removed. His eyes have been giving him trouble for some time and it was deemed wise to have one of them taken out and it was done and at last accounts the patient was getting along all right. Mr. Hamilton is past the four score mark but is quite active and enjoys all his faculties but his sight and that is a great deprivation though a faithful family and friends do what they can to make up the loss.

Engine No. 56 had an accident at Havana and it resulted in a broken axle which is waiting to be repaired.

WORLD'S MARKET NEWS

LIQUIDATING SALES OUT FIGURE IN LOWERING THE PRICE OF WHEAT

Heaviness Characterizes the Close, Which is ¾ to 1⅛ Cents Under Previous Finish—Other Leading Staples Lose.

Chicago, April 30.—Liquidating sales to make ready for May deliveries tomorrow cut a good deal of figure today in lowering the price of wheat. Heaviness characterized the close, which was ⅝c to 1⅛c under last night's level. Other leading staples too, all suffered losses—corn ¼@⅜c to ¼@⅝c net, oats ¾@⅞c to ¾@⅞c and provisions 5c to 12c.

Holders of May contracts who were unprepared to accept actual delivery of wheat or who were apprehensive as to the effect of tenders proving to be of extraordinary volume showed a noticeable disposition today to get out of the market, even at a material sacrifice. The bearishness that resulted was increased by signs of approaching general rains, much needed by important sections of the domestic winter crop belt. Weak cables counted also against the bulls but only to a minor extent as compared with the great crop promise for the whole country if drought and other mishaps were barred.

Opinions by well known experts that the United States wheat crop condition percentage of a month ago had been fully maintained and that acreage losses were the smallest for many years received wide attention. There could be no doubt that these opinions were of decided influence toward bringing about the selling pressure that finally overcame every one of the numerous hard spots in the market.

Free buying on the part of a big warehouse interest tended somewhat to offset in the corn market the bearish effect of the decline in wheat. On the other hand rapid progress in planting was an element adverse to the bulls. Late rumors of a million bushel purchase by a foreign government were not confirmed. Efforts to change from the May option to later months resulted in pulling down the oats market as a whole.

Good cash demand, however, helped to check the downturn.

WAR SPECIALTIES STEADILY MOUNT TO HIGHER PRICES

War Development and Shares of Various Equipment and Industrial Companies Transcend all Other Considerations in Stock Market.

New York, April 30.—War developments and the shares of various equipment and industrial companies now actively engaged in filling war contracts transcended all other considerations in today's stock market. Announcement of the bombardment of Dunkirk by the Germans caused an abrupt reversal of upward tendencies in the early session except in the war specialties, which steadily mounted to higher prices, though closing with moderate recessions from best quotations.

Westinghouse electric far outshown all other stocks in its class making a maximum gain of 10 points and a net gain of 8, closing at 106 as against last week's final price of 87. Transactions in Westinghouse today amounted to 225,000 shares or about 22 per cent of the day's total business and 60 per cent of its outstanding common stock.

New York Air Brake, General Electric, American locomotive, Baldwin locomotive, Lackawanna steel, Pressed steel car, American Can, and some of the motor concerns which are profiting as a result of foreign orders rose 3 to 8 points while the shares of gas and other utility companies rose in proportion.

Potential leaders, including the dividend paying railroads, the coppers and United States steel were relatively dull and backward, with heavy selling in the final hour.

Minor railway issues were stronger, Missouri, Kansas and Texas common and preferred as well as the bonds and notes, making smart advances, on acceptance of the extension plan. Canadian Pacific was weak throughout, its decline being attributed to foreign selling. London's market was described as listless with light demand for the international group.

Total sales of stocks amounted to 980,900 shares.

With blessings unmeasured my cup runneth o'er;
With perfume and oil thou anointest my head—
O, what shall I ask of thy providence more?

Let goodness and mercy, my bountiful God,

Through the land of their sojourn, thy kingdom of love.

THREE NEW CITY OFFICERS HAVE TAKEN THE OATH

Two Have Filed Qualifying Bonds—Conference Held Friday Night—to Take Office Monday.

The oath of office wsa administered late Friday afternoon by City Clerk R. L Pyatt to Henry J. Rodgers as mayor and William F. Widmayer and J. Edgar Martin as commissioners. The bond of Jerry Cox as commissioner, and also that of Joshua Vasconcellos as commissioner, were filed with County Clerk Boruff and will be passed on this morning by Judge Thomson, along with the bonds of the other officials which will doubtless be filed early in the day.

Mr. Cox and Mr. Vasconcellos will probably take the oath of office this morning. As soon as the bonds have been approved by the county court the mayor and commissioners have fulfilled the legal details of qualifying. Mr. Cox gave a surety bond for $3,000 issued by the American Surety company of New York and Mr. Vasconcellos' bond is of the same amount with Edgar E. Crabtree and Felix E. Farrell as the sureties.

The council held an informal conference last night when it is understood that the question of assignment to departments was discussed at some length but no final agreement reached. There was also some discussion as to the matter and manner of appointments. While nothing definite could be learned as to the details of this conference, the generally accepted opinion is that Mr. Widmayer will have the department of accounts and finances, Mr. Cox the streets and highways, Mr. Martin the police and fire departments, and Mr. Vasconcellos the water and light department. The new council also discussed the plan of choosing the head appointee or appointees in his department and leaving minor positions to a majority vote decision.

The incoming mayor and the retiring mayor agreed yesterday that the members of the new council will appear at the city hall Monday morning when their predecessors in office will formally turn over the offices to them. At this regular session it is the duty of the council, according to the commission form act to assign the departments.

The Salem Ladies' Aid will hold a market in National Express Co., window today.
